They Plan To Give Again!

When the Red Cross Bloodmobile makes its first visit of the new fiscal year to Appomattox on Tuesday, July 10th, these two fine county men plan to donate a unit of blood – and to give each time they can. They well understand the importance of the blood program and what it can mean to a person having open-heart surgery or an accident victim.

Donating blood is nothing new to Newton Jennings, on the left, who has through the years given a total of 62 pints of his blood or two pints less than eight gallons; nor is it new to T. Hunter Dickerson, on the right, who has given a total of 56 pints of his blood or the equivalent of 7 gallons.

Both of these men will be on hand on July 10th when the Bloodmobile comes to the Liberty Baptist Church between the hours of noon and 6 p.m. and will once again donate a unit of their blood. They urge all county residents who are able to come out and join them. The quota for the first visit is 116 pints and the total for the year will be 465 pints. Appomattox County Blood Program needs all the volunteers it can get, so come on out on the 10th.

We understand that Mr. Jennings and Mr. Dickerson have donated more blood than any other persons in Appomattox County.

Appomattox Area Code Now (804)

NO PUZZLE, REALLY — A second area code — 804 — was introduced in Virginia on Sunday, June 24. Continental Telephone System's Michelle Swank (right) shows that the code will have to be dialed to reach telephones in the area east of the Blue Ridge Mountains, including Danville, Charlottesville, Lynchburg, Appomattox, Richmond, Norfolk, Newport News, and Warsaw.

Sharon Scottosanti, (left) indicates that the existing area code 703 will continue in use in Northern Virginia and the western part of the state, including Fredericksburg, Roanoke, Martinsville, Harrisonburg, Staunton and Waynesboro. Growth in telephone usage throughout Virginia made it necessary to introduce the new area code.

Goodman Earns Trip To Disney World

Herbert Goodman of Buckingham-Appomattox Counties was one of 21 top Farm Bureau Insurance salesmen to earn a vacation to Disney World in Florida for himself and his family.

Goodman was declared an All-Star sales contest winner for his sales production during the first three months of 1973.

"Winners of this award are consistantly among the outstanding sales representatives in Virginia, and key men in our insurance program," said J. Harvey Cox, director of marketing for the Virginia Farm Bureau Insurance Companies.

Sales leaders from nine other states associated with the Southern Farm Bureau Life Insurance Company will be included in this awards program at Disney World.

July 4th

Richard Henry Lee of Virginia offered a resolution in the Continental Congress in 1776, which was to have worldwide repercussions for centuries thereafter, the resolution stating that, "these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, free and independent." This resolution was adopted by The Congress on July 2nd, 1776.

Interestingly, Congress adopted another resolution on the 4th explaining its reasons for declaring independence, and justifying the action, and this is the resolution which we now cele-

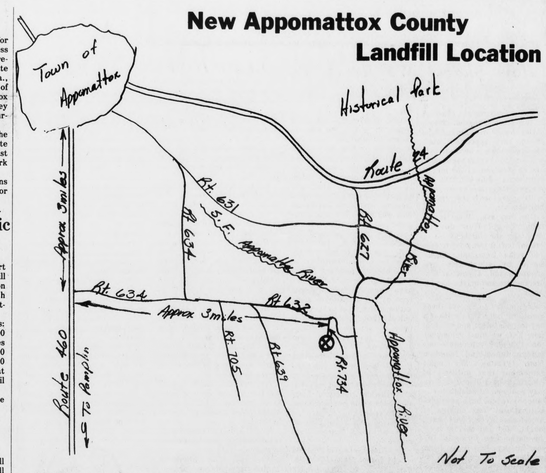
New Appomattox County Landfill Location



The map above shows the location (indicated by an X) of the new Appomattox County Landfill which will officially open for use by county residents on July 1, 1973.

The state maintained road into the landfill has been completed by highway department workers and road numbers are up. You will have no trouble finding the county landfill if you follow directions on the map above.

From the Town of Appomattox, take Route 460 East approximately three miles (or to the Blue Haven), turn left from Route 460 onto Rt. 634 then follow Rt. 632 to Rt. 734 – turn right and you will be at the landfill which is approximately three miles off Route 460.

Citizens of the county are urged to obey the regulations in order to make this system work as it should. Signs are posted at the landfill site that clearly state which type of solid waste is to be disposed of in a certain pit.

DANGER - NO ONE PERMITTED BEYOND THIS POINT. In the picture above, you can see the sign on the fence warning you to go no further or you will fall into the deep pit that is designed to take care of your garbage and trash. Other pictures in this issue of the TIMES-VIRGINIAN will show a smaller pit that will hold old appliances and furniture; a sign giving directions to a place designated for old tires and rubbish is also posted to show you just where to dispose of these items. If you personally take trash and garbage to the new landfill, park your car or truck, get out and walk to the fence and throw the trash and garbage into the pit. It will take the cooperation of the citizens of the town and county to make this new County Landfill work.

High Price Tag Locally On Federal Aid

As for as Appomattox County is concerned, does the government's grants-in-aid program pay off? How much does it cost, locally, per dollar of aid received?

According to a recent study, residents of the area have been contributing more money toward the program than people in most parts of the country but have been getting back comparatively less in the form of benefits.

For every $1 that was returned to them from Washington, for education, health services, welfare, road construction, child nutrition and other community needs during the past year, the cost to them was $1.20.

That is how much they paid, through income taxes and excise taxes that were allocated to the aid programs.

The figures are based upon a recent state-by-state study, covering the past fiscal year, made by the Tax Foundation, a non-profit research organization that monitors government spending and taxation.

According to its findings, residents of 21 states contributed more money toward the aid programs than came back to them in benefits. Those in the other 29 states ended up on the plus side, getting back more than they put in.

The figures for the State of Virginia as a whole show that some $746,000,000 of the Federal taxes collected locally went into the aid programs and that $623,000,000 was returned in grants.

A breakdown of the state figures indicates that residents of Appomattox County contributed approximately $1,537,000 of the total and that the grants received added up to $1,281,000

Not included are the matching funds that had to be produced locally.

County Schools to Receive $95,000 Under Title 1 Program

The State Department of Education has announced that Virginia's local school divisions will receive $31,522,693 during the current fiscal year to support educational prorrams conducted under Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

Of this total, Appomattox County Schools are to receive $95,004 for the 678 students who will benefit from the program.

For the state, this amount is an increase of $892,830 above the preliminary total announced by the agency last winter.

The federal funds are designed to provide supplemental educational programs for children from low income areas or who are otherwise disadvantaged. In many cases health
